Investment and Competitiveness in Africa

Series: Advances in African Economic, Social and Political Development

- ▶ Provides an exhaustive empirical investigation of all aspects of investment and trade in Africa with generalizable results across the continent
- ▶ Draws an up-to-date picture of Africa's economic situation and challenges in the post-global crisis period
- ▶ Performs a detailed examination of the weight and interaction of external drivers such as remittances and foreign direct investment with Africa's economic growth
- ▶ Informs African policymakers and international partners on ways to enhance Africa's competitiveness and future growth
- ▶ Fills a significant conceptual and empirical void in understanding the new dynamics of Africa's growth and development

The book provides a detailed analysis of the nature and determinants of finance and trade and their relationship with Africa's competitiveness. Investment is examined in its various forms (financial vs. physical), and sources (private, public, domestic and FDI), as well as its relation to the size of domestic markets and export potential. The dimensions of trade related to financial development, trade costs, development of value chains and regional integration are also studied. The capacity of finance and investment to boost Africa's competitiveness is assessed to inform continent-wide economic policy.
